Quad Event: Lake Champlain Land Trust Protected Landscape Tour

Date: July 11, 2009

Details: To experience the Lake Champlain landscape as Samuel de Champlain did in 1609, join us on an easy, family-friendly hike to a prominent vista overlooking Lake Champlain, the islands, and the Adirondacks. Our family-friendly tour, only 25 minutes from Burlington, includes an easy twenty-minute walk from the parking area to the Hoyt Overlook—found above the cliffs of Eagle Mountain. If one wanted to spot Samuel de Champlain sailing south toward Burlington, one could not find a better vantage point. Conversely, among the easiest landmarks to guide Champlain's travels would have been the prominent cliffs of Eagle Mountain. This protected natural area, conserved by the Lake Champlain Land Trust in 1990, protects landscape features and natural communities reminiscent of the 1609 landscape, dazzling displays of spring wildflowers, rugged outcrops and bobcat habitat, as well as many different rare species and natural communities. Please join us on this free, naturalist-led walk: registration is required at info@lclt.org.

Venue: Eagle Mountain Natural Area

Location: Milton
